

Education vs. Retirement Bucket Planner

Separate two important goals so each can be planned, reviewed, and funded deliberately.

Planning principle: Education and retirement often have different deadlines, flexibility, and funding choices. Record each goal separately before deciding how contributions should be divided.

Goal and intended use
Target date or time horizon
Current amount set aside
Planned regular contribution
Assumed return used for planning
Inflation assumption
Funding gap to investigate
Available alternatives or flexibility
Review frequency
Next review note

Contribution decision	Amount or percentage	Reason and evidence
Education
Retirement

Review before acting: Check whether assumptions are realistic, whether emergency savings and essential obligations are protected, and whether professional advice is appropriate for your circumstances.

This planner is for education and discussion. It does not provide personal financial, tax, legal, or investment advice.
